Vice Principal Discriminated Against?

Minority Groups Want to Know Why Shelly Fernandez Not Principal

By JANET PARKER

Several Daly City minority groups are demanding to know why a Jefferson Elementary School District vice-principal was not appointed principal of the same school.

They are claiming discrimination and they are seeking a public hearing to air their grievance.

Individuals who said they represented the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and the Filipino Legal Defense and Educational Foundation appeared at the JESD Board of Trustees meeting last week, asking that Shelly Fernandez, former vice-principal of George Washington School, be given a public hearing.

Ms. Fernandez, who said she's half Chicano, is also a member of the National Organization of Women board of directors and recently served as acting director of Guadalupe Health Center.

The trustees have approved San Mateo Elementary School educator, Robert Williams, 35, as the principal for George Washington School, although he has not formally accepted the job.

Although Ms. Fernandez was not present, Cathy Smallwood, of the health center board of directors, asked the board for the hearing.

She was told by Supt. Herbert Hemington that there is no justification under the education code for the board to give a public hearing since the woman was not dismissed, but was transferred.

Trustees indicated, however, an informal hearing could occur if the concerned groups just show up.

Maury Tolson, who said he represented NAACP, said later the minority groups will appear at the Sept. 17 meeting to express their concern.

He said the minority groups have discussed possible legal action against the district in Ms. Fernandez's behalf.

"There's been no effort at all to hire someone of minority extraction, even though minority student participation is increasing," Tolson said.

Ms. Fernandez said she recently flew to Atlanta to consult with the legal committee of NOW. She also has been in contact with her own lawyers, she said.

She said she will wait and see what happens this year before any action will be taken.

"If, in fact, we feel we want to do something about this, we will," she said.

Hemington said she was one of 20 persons interviewed for the job by a panel of four teachers, two parents and two administrators.

She was not one of six persons, he said, recommended by the committee for the job.

He explained that George Washington and General Pershing schools shared a principal last year. It was determined that George Washington should have its own principal and the position was created this year.

Ms. Fernandez's vice-principal job was eliminated.

She has been appointed Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) head bilingual teacher for this year.

She said she preferred a public hearing to a closed door executive session to air her grievance because the community should know what is taking place.

"I don't like to do things behind closed doors," she said. "I'm an open person. My strength is in being a bridge between the school and the community."

Ms. Fernandez said she's not certain that her politi-

Resignation Of Broadmoor Chief Savage

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Veteran Broadmoor Police Chief Ray W. Savage was expected to hand in his resignation to Broadmoor Police District commissioners last night.

Citing health reasons, Savage said he "regretfully handed in my resignation," effective Nov. 1, after some 26 years on the Broadmoor police force.

He has been that community's chief of police since September, 1952.

In 1972, Savage had a heart attack and has limited his workload since then.

"I feel that I can no longer perform the duties that are required of me," Savage explained. "As my immediate plans are to remain in the area (the district may) call upon me for any assistance."

Broadmoor has been the center of political upheaval in recent weeks.

One police commissioner, John McCloskey, is the subject of a citizens' recall election.

Two others — Vince Murphy and Louis Manis — have chosen not to run for re-election in the forthcoming November election.

On top of all this turmoil, Savage says the police department will be out of money by July, 1976.

The estimated budget for the coming year amounts to $179,000 for the police district — the last such district in the state.

Property taxes will provide some $82,500 in revenues. Coupled with other sources of income, the district will realize a total revenue income of $116,100 — far short of the anticipated budget.

If Daly City continues to slice away at Broadmoor properties through annexation (there are two such annexations pending) property owners could not carry the full tax load, Savage predicts.

"We'll be broke. We've been going broke for some time now," he said.

In Broadmoor's reserve fund, a fund that has been tapped for money in the past to support the six-man police department, there is only $29,595 remaining.

And Savage said he has recommended his personnel be given a 10 per cent pay raise, retroactive to July 1.

Savage was expected to recommend that Lt. Meryl Baxley be appointed acting police chief until the $1,416 per month post is filled.

Colma Policeman Charged

The Colma City Council reportedly has been asked to consider in public hearing the termination of Raymond Ottoboni, Jr., a police officer, who once was the cemetery township's chief of police, The Post learned today.

It is understood that Ottoboni, who was the department's chief until two years ago, has been charged with unofficer-like conduct.

The present chief, Jim Dorris, confirmed that the charges have been made and that he believed the City Council would discuss the charges at their meeting tonight.

However, Raymond Ottoboni Sr., a councilman, said his son has not had time to obtain an attorney and legal counsel so the hearing could not possibly be held.

"They have to give him more time than that," Ottoboni, Sr. said.

The officer learned of the charges Monday, his father said.

Chief Dorris stressed that any action against the officer depends on council approval.

"He's not released until after the council takes action. They may not take action," Dorris said.

Dorris said he would be unable to discuss the situation until after the council meets.

He did say, however, that the charges against Ottoboni came after an investigation conducted last month.

The officer's father said his son stepped down from the chief's position willingly two years ago.

He said Chief Dorris has complained of every move Ottoboni, Jr. has made.

The chief, he said, has been causing trouble for Ottoboni since his appointment.

Ottoboni, Jr. was not available for comment.

His father said they are seeking legal assistance now and could not provide any further information.

The officer has been with the Colma Police Department five years.

DC May Honor Late Ann Eason

The City of Daly City, at the urging of many residents, is studying the possibility of naming a room at Lincoln Park Clubhouse in memory of the late Ann Eason, longtime recreation commission member.

Forty-one years ago this week, Daly City started its first recreational program. This program was the outgrowth of the interest of several PTA members in the community, including Mrs. Eason.

Ann Eason

Mrs. Eason was thn president of the General Pershing PTA.

The city council appointed an Administrative and Advisory Committee — predecessor to the city's parks and recreation commission — to oversee this recreation program.

Mrs. Eason was one of the original members of this committee.

She served on the committee throughout its existence.

During WWII she organized and worked as a volunteer in leisure time activities for Daly City servicemen.

In 1946, a formal park and recreation commission was formed and Mrs. Eason was appointed to it.

However, because of an oversight, it was not until 1951 that an ordinance was passed by the city council establishing the recreation commission.

Mrs. Eason served as a commissioner on the parks and recreation commission from its inception until her death in June, 1968.

In addition to her duties on the recreation commission, Mrs. Eason also was a trustee for the Jefferson Union High School District for many years.

She resigned from the school board post because of ill health, but remained as a recreation commissioner.

Mrs. Eason served on a variety of charities and other fund-raising projects. She served on the Girl Scout Council, Salvation Army Committee and the Florence Crittendon Home.

The Eason family moved to Daly City in 1924.

Dedication Slated For New Library

At the dedication of the new Serramonte Library in Gellert Park which is scheduled for the afternoon of Sept. 20, City Librarian Samuel Chandler, the City Council of Daly City, and the library board of trustees will formally present to the public the newly completed library, which will be the library system's largest branch and its headquarters.

Library staff members will conduct tours of the building.

Hospitality for the event will be provided by The Friends of the Daly City Library.

According to Mrs. H. C. Kincaid, president, hospitality chairwoman Mrs. Wayne Jarvis is being assisted by Mrs. Emmett Tierney and Elvera Sunnell in planning refreshments.

Members of The Friends will supplement the committee as hostesses.

Mrs. Albert Teglia is designing name tags.

Refreshments will be served in the community cultural room, which has been furnished and equipped by The Friends.

Al Schwarzbach, building fund committee chairman, and committee members Mrs. Monte Hill, Albert Teglia, Mrs. Teglia and Emmett Tierney report the fund has provided for the facility a compact kitchen unit, portable stage, piano, 50 chairs with three dollies on rollers for storage, three tables, lectern with public address system, display case, screen and a blackboard.

No Salary Boost Offered

Jeff High Teachers Demand Pact Action

Teachers in Jefferson Union High School District have demanded district action by Thursday on a package of 13 items of concern to the four teacher organizations.

The four organizations — JUHSD Teachers Association, the American Federation of Teachers, the coaches' association, and the adult school teachers — met Thursday en masse to protest what they see as a lack of district response to their concerns.

The teachers have agreed to send their bargaining team back to the table to meet with the district's negotiators.

To date, the district has offered no salary increase for the 361 teachers.

"They (the district) are not prepared to negotiate issues we feel important," said Michael Tugindreich, program director for the AFT.

"They will only negotiate the items they will bring to us," he said. "There were never any teacher priorities discussed."

At the meeting last week, the teachers asked that

- The district be informed that their response to the Certificated Employe Council package is unacceptable.
- The district respond by Thursday to the 13 items in the package.
- That another district-wide teacher meeting be held Tuesday.

Each of the four organizations will meet before Tuesday, Tugindreich said, to discuss the package and act on proposals.

The teachers are asking that Supt. Dr. Floyd Gonella step into negotiations.

Former Senator Convicted

Sentencing has been set for Oct. 10 for former State Senator Richard J. Dolwig, who was found guilty along with five others Monday on charges involving a complicated real estate financing scheme.

Dolwig, who served for 24 years as a San Mateo County representative in the state legislature, was found guilty of eight counts of fraud, racketeering activity and conspiracy.

"I know I'm innocent and I will appeal and justice will be done," the 67-year-old attorney told newsmen after the verdict was returned in U.S. District Court in San Francisco.

Dolwig, who now resides in Los Angeles, faces a possible maximum sentence of 75 years in prison and fines of $75,000.

He was one of seven co-defendants who went on trial Aug. 4 before Judge Samuel Conti. They had been indicted in June by a federal grand jury on 28 counts of conspiracy, fraud by telephone and mail, interstate transportation of money obtained by fraud and racketeer-influenced and corrupt organizations.

Pacifica Rejects Buddhist Temple

By BOB PETERSON

Plans for a Sambosa Buddhist Temple in Pacifica off Gypsy Hill Road were scuttled Monday night by 4-1 vote of the City Council.

Councilwoman Grace McCarthy, pointing out that both the planning commission and Hillside review board after long study had approved unanimously of the proposed project; cast the dissenting vote.

San Jose attorney Peter Nakahara, representing applicant Han Sang Lee, said he was "very, very dissapointed" with the decision.

"I don't think any proper grounds were given," said Nakahara, concerning the motion to deny a rezoning of 2.1 acres from single family to planned development use.

Councilwoman Janice Fulford made the motion, which was seconded by Councilman Sid Lorvan. At the time Mrs. Fulford gave no specific reason for their motion to deny. She later said it was based primarily on potential drainage and traffic problems. Both items were discussed extensively prior to her motion.

In the lobby, resident Alan Eisan, of 1 Gypsy Hill Road, who retained Burlingame attorney Dermot Fitz-

Woman Held in Daly City Stabbing

A 54-year-old stabbing victim was listed in "stable" condition in San Francisco County General Hospital early Tuesday and a 28-year-old woman was arrested in connection with what Daly City police said was a "continuing domestic problem."

The authorities said the victim is Nelson Williams of 3083-A Geneva Ave., Daly City, and in custody is Carolyn Webster, 28, of the same address.

A police spokesman said the woman was charged with assault with intent to commit murder after Williams drove himself to the San Francisco hospital with a chest wound.

The wound was caused by a paring knife, the blade of which just knicked the heart, police said.

Several other incidents recently have been reported, police said.

Laguna Salada Contract

Negotiations Chided As Charade

Grady Hesters, a Laguna Salada School District trustee, said at Thursday night's board meeting that the contract negotiations between teachers, administrators and the board was a "charade."

The teachers had approved by voice vote a 6.5 per cent pay increase. They originally had asked for a 12.5 per cent increase and suggested that it be financed by freezing administrative salaries and reducing non-teaching personnel salaries by 15 per cent.

The 6.5 per cent will raise slightly teacher salaries that ranged from $8,000 to $17,000, depending on seniority.

Hesters said the results were inevitable.

"The game we played was one that distracted us all from the purpose that I and you also want to be here for," he said. "It's a real shame that a week before school starts people are standing around the hallways of schools talking about whether they're going to strike.

"I don't want my kids to go through another 15 years of school with the best teachers in the district and the administrative staff tied up all summer doing this kind of junk — and that's all it is," he concluded.

Hesters stressed that he wasn't condemning teachers, administrators or trustees — just the negotiating system.

The trustees will review the Certificated Employe's Council's "Conceptual Package" at its Sept. 18 meeting.

In other business, the board voted unanimously to accept Service Concrete Co.'s bid of $16,250 to restore the San Pedro Creek streambed at Sanchez School.

A cement ramp under the bride has been causing erosion. The new bridge will be supported by piers outside of the streambed, elminating the problem.

The board also voted unanimously to contract Raker Roofing to repair roofs at Linda Mar, Ortega, Sanchez, Vallemar and Westview Schools, at a cost of $31,545.

Dolwig

The five others convicted Monday were:

David Kaplan, 45, a Miami, Fla., businessman and key figure in the case, found guilty of all 21 counts against him; Dave Gorowitz, 44, of Miami, on eight counts; Earl Vogt, 50, a Rochester, N.Y. investment conselor, on five of 13 counts; Walter Stradley, 50, a Rock Island, Ill. attorney, on four of 12 counts; and Douglas Cassidy, 32, a Torrance insurance agent, on five of six counts.

Dolwig was released on his own recognizance pending sentencing. But Kaplan and Gorowitz had their bail raised from $100,000 to $200,000 and were taken into custody by authorities. Both reportedly have been identified by the U.S. Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations as having organized crime connections.

Gerald Enis, another Torrance insurance broker, was acquitted on all counts.

The jury had deliberated for about 4½ days on government allegations that real estate developers seeking loans were bilked of advance fees tendered to obtain letters of credit which never materialized.

The government claimed the prospective borrowers were led to believe that Eurovest, Inc., a fund based on Grand Cayman Island, would put up securities for letters of credit to be used to obtain loans from financial institutions.

But, the charges said, Eurovest didn't have the securities and the advance fees were not returned.

Dolwig was identified in the testimony as custodian of the Eurovest funds, in which he operated a trust account to hold advance fees and release funds upon instructions from Eurovest.

He allegedly collected $3,000 in commissions and stood to make up to $170,000 if all clients dealing with Eurovest had paid advance fees. Eurovest had collected $167,000, with $92,000 of it going through Dolwig's trust account, according to evidence presented

The government case was handled by Robert Breakstone and Edmund Lyons, special prosecutors of the Organized Crime Strike Force.

Dolwig had resided in Atherton during most of his time in the legislature, the first 10 years in the Assembly and the last 14 in the Senate. He moved to Hillsborough in 1969 after his third marriage, this to Bette Stanley, a legislative staff member in Sacramento.

He first declared he would seek another Senate term in 1970 but later withdrew, giving ill health as his reason. He was succeeded by current State Senator Arlen F. Gregorio, D-Menlo Park.

Dolwig was considered one of the "Old Guard" in the Senate, a group of conservative legislators who chaired or controlled key committees. Dolwig once was chairman of the powerful Governmental Efficiency Committee before it was disbanded.

Dolwig was instrumental in passage of the Estero Act of 1960 that allowed the filling of Brewer's Island east of San Mateo and the subsequent development of Foster City there. But over the years he came increasingly under fire from environmentalists for his positions on Bay fill, although in the last year Dolwig joined the conservationists in supporting strong shoreline protection measures.

The senator also was charged with conflict of interest in June, 1969, after it was disclosed he owned stock in a Los Angeles insurance firm for which he also was doing legal work.

He also was chairman of the Senate Insurance and Financial Institutions Committee, during which time he introduced a bill that would have abolished the jobs of several state insurance commissioners. A permit was issued for Dolwig's company to operate soon after the bill was killed.

All involved denied any connection and Dolwig maintained he had not received any money from his investment in the insurance firm.

Dolwig was cleared a month later after a hearing by the Senate Ethics Committee.

gerald to fight the rezoning, shook hands with Nakahara and said "I'm sorry we had to oppose you. We would welcome you as a neighbor, but not as a project."

"That's your own conscience," responded Nakahara. He said he would have liked every member of the council to have visited the Buddhist Temple in Carmel and "talked to the people of Carmel" before they made a decision. A companion said, "They (the council) know very little about the church."

Aside from Nakahara, who said the project was consistent with the city's General Plan and "will be a source of pride and satisfaction to the city," only Fred Howard, representing the Planning Commission, spoke in favor of the project.

Fitzgerald gave two reasons against the project. He said Gypsy Hill Road was a private road and that any rezoning would be spot zoning.

Both objections were countered by City Planner Jim Miller. He said that although the road in a sense is a private road, "anyone with a legitimate interest in that property would have a right to use it." He also said property to the east is now zoned planned development, which would rule out the spot zoning theory.

Another opponent was Dr. Sebastian Campagna of 55 Aura Vista, who in the past has indicated he would like to purchase the site to build a home there.

Dr. Campagna contended that the proposed temple would create drainage problems, police and fire problems and a traffic hazard at the Gypsy Hill Road — Sharp Park Road intersection. He also was highly critical of the fact the city approved a negative declaration (saying in essence there would be no need for an environmental impact statement) on the project.

Both Miller and Asst. City Engineer Frank Erbacher pointed out that the project would generate less traffic than if a single family home were allowed to be constructed on the site. The other problem areas would apply in other projects as well, they said. they said.

Using the Carmel temple as a basis for comparison, Nakahara said the congregation would be upwards of 30 persons. The majority of these worshipers would be bused to the site for twice-monthly services. There would be a caretaker residing at the site permanently, and at times traveling monks may stay for several days.

Mrs. Fulford at one point expressed concern that "this religion would not be serving Pacificans to any great extent," whereby City Atty. Gloria Scheid cautioned against any religion-related decision. The project would necessitate improvements, however slight. Mrs. Fulford explained, to Sharp Park Road and the city, not a non-taxed entity, would be left with the responsibility to maintain that road. Erbacher said such maintenance would be limited and the applicant would pay for improvement.

As to her concern about drainage, Mrs. Fulford said she wanted to know before a project was approved what kind of a drainage system was being proposed. Miller explained drainage design is not included as part of a development plan. It is worked out in specifics only if a project is approved. He said it appeared existing "down stream channels" could accomodate drainage from this project.

Mayor Stan Farber questioned the economic feasibility of such a project. Nakahara said the project was estimated to cost under $500,000. He said the Carmel temple represents a $340,000 expenditure.

The proposed project was to have consisted of the temple with a dining hall, a library, a prayer temple and a 30-car parking lot required by the city.

Nakahara declined to speculate on whether he would pursue the matter pending consultation with his client Han Sang Lee.

cal activity is the reason she was denied the job.

But, she said, she's convinced her work at George Washington was effective.

"Of course, I can work with bilingual problems in the district which are great. But I consider myself an administrator and I'm concerned about my career. I've worked long and hard," she said.

Hemington said she has an opportunity for an executive session whenever she desires.

He and the board also indicated an informal hearing could occur if the interested groups show up at the meeting.

"The board has been very good about letting people express their views on situations," he said.

Marlene Espinoza, who also was at the meeting and worked with Ms. Fernandez at the health center this summer, said letters and petitions from the community have been written in support of Ms. Fernandez.

Ms. Fernandez has been in the district 12 years and was vice principal two years.

She said she's learned several languages, including Tagalog and Japanese, in order to familiarize herself with the community.

She said she believes she's helped the community reach stability and continuity because she is from a similar background.

The board and district, she said, should realize "that strong leadership from a woman is not something to fear."

"I will try to do a good job in the bilingual position but in my heart I feel I should have been the principal of George Washington," she said.

Mrs. Espinoza said Ms. Fernandez has been a source of services and information for the minority community.

"If you live in a community, you can't help but get involved in some of its problems," Ms. Espinoza said.

Jamieson is a resident of Fortuna and is a ten year member of the Fortuna Rotary Club. He is a retired state forest ranger and presently is the secretary-manager of the Redwood Region Logging Conference.

During his visit, he will meet with A.F. Vial, president, and J.C. Wyatt, secretary of the Daly City club.

Wild Chase Ends in Arrests

Daly City Police Officer Ernie DaRoza had a harrowing high speed car chase along fog-shrouded Junipero Serra Freeway early today at speeds topping 115 miles per hour.

DaRoza reported that he saw two cars drag racing in the southbound lanes of Interstate 280 about 3:15 a.m. and began pursuing them.

The cars, allegedly racing side by side, disappeared into a thick fog bank.

In the Westborough Avenue off-ramp area, the fog lifted and DaRoza spotted the two cars once again — still speeding side by side.

Arrested and charged with speeding and reckless driving were Bruce Duncan Farley, 18, of 1638 Fairway, Belmont, and Anthony Mike Fraumeni, 18, of 302 Encina, Redwood City.

The chase lasted about 10 miles.

Bruno OKs Plan

Tpe San Bruno City Council Monday night approved two new elements to its general plan.

Neither was on a unanimous vote.

Councilman Dick Griffith voted "no" on the traffic circulation element, prepared for the planning department by Torrey & Torrey, Inc., on the grounds that its contents are too general and "not really saying what we intend it to."

Griffith said he had "lots of things" in the circulation element "underlined," but did not make bring them up, because "it didn't seem to be the thing to do," in light of criticism, he said, that he asked too many questions about previous elements. Councilman Gary Mondfrans and Griffith voted "no" on the draft seismic and safety elements.

For the Sake of Barbershop Singing

By JOHN HORGAN
Staff Writer

You can't help but notice them.

They are as out of place as Anwar Sadat at a bar mitzvah. But there they are, some four dozen or so men of all shapes and sizes, going through what looks like the final phase of delerium tremens in a large multi-use room of the First Presbyterian Church in Palo Alto.

A passing acolyte wouldn't know what to think if he observed those odd gyrations on a typical Monday evening.

The men roll their heads back and forth with their eyes closed. They rotate their shoulders. They stretch their jaws. They lift their bellies, some of which are considerable, and breathe deeply. They hum a lot.

What is all this? What gives? Is it a warmup for a class in the martial arts? Is it the 49er free agent draft come to roost there in a church hall?

It is none of the above.

In fact, it is the Peninsula Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc., going through its preliminary paces.

"We're from all walks of life," says San Mateo's Larry Onderdonk, 33 and a real estate syndicator.

"All ages from teen-agers to men in their seventies are represented here."

Barbershop singing, one of three designated original American music forms (the others are the cowboy ballad and the Negro spiritual), is catching on nationwide.

The Peninsula group, which was formed 28 years ago, is one of 750 chapters containing some 35,000 men in the U.S. and a number of foreign countries.

Earlier this summer, more than 8,000 barbershop enthusiasts gathered in Indianapolis for the society's 37th convention. The Peninsula chapter was well-represented.

In all, there are 130 members in the local group, according to John Krizek of San Carlos. About 40 to 45 of them are from San Mateo County.

Krizek, 42 and a public relations man, says, "Barbershop singing attracts a wide variety of people. We have doctors, psychiatrists, computer types, carpenters, retired guys, even a barber, in this chapter."

Basically, there are two categories of barbershop singing: the quartet and the chorus. The Peninsula chapter's chorus practices for several hours each Monday night at the Palo Alto church. Quartets practice on their own.

Points out Onderdonk, "My quartet, the Western Chordsmen, tries to get together twice a week for about four hours each time. Some groups practice as much as four times a week." Ruefully, Krizek admits that more than one marriage has been shaken by this fanatical dedication.

Competition between the nation's 1,200 registered quartets can be fierce.

"There are five areas of judging," explains Onderdonk. "It takes the judges years to train for their job. The system is incredibly sophisticated. The musicianship is tremendous."

A year ago, Krizek says, the Peninsula chorus placed second in a national contest in Kansas City. For that event, the group chartered a stretch DC 8 for $26,000.

"It was like planning for the Super Bowl," recalls Krizek. For that trek, 101 chorus members went along, many of them accompanied by their wives.

The local society won't have to worry much about logistics for the national convention in 1976, however.

That celebration, which will coincide with the bicentennial year, will be held next July in San Francisco.

Acolytes, brace yourselves.

JESD Votes New Teacher Pay Hike

A 7 per cent pay raise has been approved for the 360 Jefferson Elementary School District teachers in Daly City-Colma.

At the same time Wednesday night, trustees approved the rehiring of virtually all of the 78 teachers who had been dismissed early in the summer when it appeared the district would be working with a tight budget.

Recently approved in the state legislature was SB 220, which gave additional revenues to many school districts, according to Supt. Herbert Hemington.

The JESD, Hemington said, received $310,065 from SB 220, enabling the pay raise and rehiring.

All teachers involved, Hemington said, have been notified of their rehiring and reassignments for the 1975-76 school year, which begins Monday in Daly City.

The 7 per cent salary increase was approved by the Certificated Employee Council (CEC) at an Aug. 28 meeting.

Originally, the teachers had requested an 18 per cent cost-of-living increase.

The salary raise for the teachers will cost the district approximately $560,000 Hemington said.

He said JESD teachers are about the second or third lowest paid in the county.

"Even with the salary increase included, the teachers still are very low on the county scale," Hemington said.

Hemington, as the board's designated representative, and representatives from the non-certificated and the administrative groups now must finalize their salary agreements.

The administrative association will meet with the superintendent Friday.

Critics Shred Airport Report

The first of a series of public hearings on San Francisco International Airport's federal "environmental impact assessment report" revealed that several San Mateo County residents feel the three-volume document is so deficient it could have been done in three pages.

The occasion was the Environmental Quality Coordinating Council's public hearing into the airport "EIAR," a non-official warm-up session for official hearings which are to follow.

Though the EQCC is not among the bodies which must hold official public hearings, acting chairman Ted Gillis of Redwood City assured all present Thursday night their comments would be forwarded to the San Francisco Airports Commission for inclusion in the final draft of the impact report.

There were less than 30 people present for the hearing at San Bruno City Hall, including two defenders of the airport expansion plan, reporters and staff members of the San Mateo County Planning Commission.

The others, several speakers remarked, "are those faces I see at every meeting having to do with the airport" — Sylvia Gregory of the Airport Impact Reduction Force; Rose Urbach of San Bruno, a longtime activist against airport noise; San Bruno Councilman and Airport Land Use Committee Chairman Anthony Governale, and Dr. William Grant of Menlo Park, an outspoken member of the Friends of the Earth, the group which recently sued the airport to halt construction until the impact report was completed.

Dr. Grant was on a three-member panel with Govenale and county planning aide Barry Nathan, and Gillis apologized because he was unable to find any official spokesman for the airport position.

San Francisco's Airports Commission declined to join the panel, Gillis said, because they have a policy against appearing at any impact report hearings other than their own, which is scheduled for Oct. 7.

San Mateo County's Planning Commission will hear comments on the report Sept. 24, and the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors will review it Sept. 30 or later, he said.

Governale's Airport Land Use Commission will open public hearings on the impact report Oct. 9. Governale indicated that any remarks he might make were based on an earlier impact report made to the state; not this one, which is being made to the federal government.

Nathan said a staff review of the report revealed a number of deficiencies in supporting data and disputable logic.

A major impact of the airport, he said, is that created by ground traffic and parking, yet, the assessment report barely touches on the subject of employe parking. Nathan said some improvements could readily be made in this area.

Grant said improvements could be made by creating a "shuttle service" from San Bruno's Southern Pacific rail depot to airport shop areas. Grant credited Governale with the idea.

United Travel Agencies Name New President

Effective Oct. 1, Vladimir Tupy has been appointed president of the 25 United Travel Service Agencies in the San Francisco Bay Area.

For the past eight years Tupy has been general manager of all of the Roos/Atkins World Travel Bureaus.

The United Travel Agencies are located throughout the Bay Area, and include offices in San Mateo, Pacifica and Daly City.

Judge's Wife Injured in Accident

The wife of retired Superior Court Judge Frank B. Blum was injured Saturday night in a traffic accident on El Camino Real just south of Redwood City, the Highway Patrol reports.

Patrolmen said that a car driven by the judge was involved in a collision as he pulled out of the driveway of the Cote-d'Azur restaurant shortly after 10 p.m.

Blum's wife, Lois, 57, was taken to Sequoia Hospital where she was treated for painful bruises of the back and neck and released.

Blum and the other driver, Jeri Linn Smith, 21, of 2846 Devonshire Ave., Redwood City, were not reported injured.

'No' on SST By Council Of Cities

North County Council of Cities made clear its desire Thursday night to keep the supersonic transport (SST) out of San Francisco International Airport.

The council adopted a resolution directing a letter be sent to Congressman Leo Ryan, D-San Mateo, asking that the aircraft not be permitted to land at the local airport.

Meeting in San Bruno, the council was reacting to a previous letter to the congressman by Pacifica Mayor Stan Farber.

Farber had expressed his city's objection to the aircraft.

"Our council and community feel this craft will impose totally intolerable noise conditions in various parts of the Bay Area, including Pacifica," Farber wrote.

Pacifica's concern was sparked by communication from noise consultant Dr. Maurice A. Garbell indicating the SST is being considered for admission at JFK and Dulles international airports.

Garbell said the introduction of the planes there "might in fact open the door to a step-by-step intrusion of such aircraft into San Francisco, Los Angeles and even the Oakland Airport with its 10,000 foot-long runway."

Garbell said that although there have been assurances from the Federal Aviation Administration director of environmental quality that no such "foot-in-the-door" problems exist, he thinks there is still that possibility.

Of immediate concern is the French-British Concorde SST-16 of which are being considered in the FAA draft Environmental Impact Statement for limited admission at the two East Coast airports.

The council's vice-chairman, San Bruno Mayor John Barnard, said the eastern landings could set a precedent.

San Bruno Councilman Gary Mondfrans noted he is concerned about the planes coming in from Tokyo.

"What goes up must come down, and we don't want it to come down here," Mondfrans said. "We are concerned about something happening here."

Millbrae Mayor Art Lepore noted that the United States won't permit the plane to be built in this country, yet consideration is being given to allowing SSTs to land at airports here.

BRUNCH PREPARATIONS
Rehearsing their kitchen duties for the San Mateo County Dental Wives annual membership brunch Sept. 18 are (from left) Mesdames Robert Parr, David Ferro and Michael Paull. The 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. event will take place at Mrs. Paull's San Carlos home.

Dental Brunch Plans

Invitations have been issued to all San Mateo County Dental wives to attend the annual membership brunch being presented by the San Mateo County Dental Auxiliary.

The event will take place Sept. 18 from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Setting will be the San Carlos home of Dr. and Mrs. Michael Paull.

On hand to receive guests will be the group's newly elected president, Mrs. Thomas Cartney of Portola Valley, who will be assisted by the following members of her executive board: Mesdames David Ferro, Hillsborough; Bernard McMurdo, Foster City; Kenneth Stergion, San Carlos, Mitch Wakasa, Hillsborough, George Wolff, Burlingame; and William Layton, San Mateo.

Reservations are being accepted by Mrs. Thomas Cartney and Mrs. Eric Olson.

Refugee Kids At School?

By JOHN HORGAN

Public school districts in San Mateo County are this week preparing to deal with a problem they couldn't anticipate just a few months ago: What to do with Vietnamese refugee children who have come here virtually unequipped to handle either the English language or the American way of life.

This week, the two dozen districts in this country are waiting to get an accurate count of just how many such children there are in classes this fall.

"So far," says Dr. Elaine Barnes of the county's office of public education in Redwood City, "our information has been confused and uncertain. We are just waiting to see how many children turn up in classes before we act."

Dr. Barnes has been assigned the job of coordinating the districts' response to the needs of the Vietnamese children.

According to her, there is no firm estimate of the number of children which can be expected in local classrooms this month.

Says she, "There is no single agency in charge of keeping track of these families. We don't know where they are living or how many there are. And we are concerned about it."

According to the Rev. John Kelly of the Conference on Religion, Race and Social Concern of San Mateo County, "There has been a great deal of confusion. Some of the families are under no agency at all. They just moved in immediately with local relatives."

The conference has taken on the task of attempting to compile an accurate list of families in the county but a precise total figure has yet to be produced.

During the summer, government and non-government sources indicated that between 150 and 200 Vietnamese refugees might be living in this county. But those figures are, at best, educated guesses, Dr. Barnes says.

"The Red Cross has been active in working with the refugees in the county," she explains. The Red Cross has established two centers in Menlo Park and Burlingame where refugees could learn the rudiments of English this summer.

That program served 100 Vietnamese people, about half of them children, says Sheila Castle, the Red Cross' assistant manager for the Golden Gate Chapter in Burlingame.

The first automobile race in the United States, on Thanksgiving Day, 1895, between Chicago and Waukegan, Ill., was won with an average speed of 7½ miles per hour.

College Staff Without Pact

In all probability, teachers in the San Mateo Community College District will be returning to their classes today without a contract.

Negotiations between the instructors and officials of the three-campus district are continuing.

The district is offering is a 5.1 per cent salary increase. The teachers have asked for a 9 per cent cost-of-living raise.

In addition, the faculty has been seeking a range of non-salary improvements in the contract.

This year's negotiations have been slow-paced, said Chancellor Glenn Smith. They have extended through the summer and into the fall.

This year marks one of the few times in the history of the district when the teachers and the district have not settled on a contract before the start of school.

Krishnan Arrested in Missing Book Incident

A member of the International Society of Krishna Consciousness was arrested at the San Francisco International Airport Wednesday — for allegedly stealing one of his own sect's books from the United Service Organization's lounge in the central terminal.

Booked at the county jail in Redwood City on a charge of petty theft was Louis A. Gasmann, 19, who gave his address as the center's headquarters in Berkeley.

According to sheriff's deputies, Gasmann followed a serviceman into the lounge and became involved in an argument. Both men went to the sheriff's substation, where deputies explained they could not arrest Gasmann because of a court order by Superior Court Judge Melvin E. Cohn.

In the meantime, however, they reported that Judy Brooks, director of the servicemen's lounge, reported that Gasmann had picked up a Hare Krishna book placed on display in the lounge and put it in his shoulder bag.

The deputies checked the terminal, they reported, and when they located Gasmann they found the book, stamped "Property of the USO Lounge" in his bag. It had been donated to the lounge by a serviceman previously.

Airport Noise Hearings Set

Public hearings on airport noise nationally will be held in four localities, including the San Francisco Bay Area, this month, the Federal Aviation Administration announced today.

Bay Area hearings will be held Sept. 18 and 19 at the San Mateo County Fairgrounds Hall of Flowers. Sessions will begin at 1 and 6:30 p.m. Sept. 18, and at 9 a.m. Sept. 19.

Other hearings will be held in Los Angeles, San Diego, and Missoula, Mont., the FAA said.

Purpose of the hearings is to give the public a voice in national airport policy, said the federal agency.

More Turtle Species

Three more species of sea turtles, that ancient family of reptiles which lived in the days of the dinosaurs, have been pushed closer to extinction because of increased development of coastal shorelines and overuse for commercial purposes.

The green (Chelonia mydas), loggerhead (Caretta caretta), and Pacific ridley (Lepidochelys olivacea) sea turtles have been proposed in the Federal Register to be added to the U.S. list of Threatened Wildlife.

Bay Area Study Reveals Needs

Unfare: Transit Trouble

A 16-month study by the Bay Area Council has determined that the only way to meet rising transit operating deficits is to increase fares and levy more taxes.

The non-profit organization's Transit Task Force also determined that all transit systems should be coordinated under a regional agency.

This would provide for better operation of systems and also would achieve economies on a higher scale, the task force stated.

Of the area's 19 transit systems, fares account for only 16 per cent of revenues used to meet budgets, according to Ronald R. Brill.

Brill, a member of the task force, said costs will keep outrunning fares in the foreseeable future.

With the cost of maintaining and building transit systems in the Bay Area is escalating at such a rate, sufficient funds cannot be found through present sources, it was explained.

A survey conducted by the Bay Area Council of registered voters in the area revealed most persons feel the principal reason for transit agencies' financial difficulties is two-fold — mismanagement and lack of patronage.

The survey disclosed that only half of all Bay Area voters use public transportation — either partially or regularly.

Those who use it regularly amount to only 17 per cent, the report noted.

"The primary reason cited for not commuting by transit is the lack of available public transportation," the report stated.

Arthur T. Cooke Jr., chairman of the BAC task force, suggested the annual in-lieu car tax paid by motorists each year be increased and part of the money be used for public transit.

This tax has not been raised for the past 40 years, Cooke said.

But the survey, conducted for BAC by Tyler Research Associates, showed that of the 22 "pragmatic funding alternatives" the suggestion that a special charge for annual automobile registration be levied is "marginally unacceptable to a majority of voters."

Only five alternatives were considered palatable to voters.

These included transfer part or all existing gasoline tax monies from highway projects to transit; increase the amount of federal grants and revenue sharing; transfer money from state tidelands oil revenues; trnsfer money from other government programs in the Bay Area; and increase excise taxes on liquor and cigarettes.

Voters were not receptive to increasing fares on transit systems or placing an increased tax burden on businesses or employers, the report stated; nor did they think it wise to create a special charge to be tacked onto the purchase price of a new car.

John M. Tyler, head of Tyler Research, said most people do not understand that it costs more money to run a transit system than is realized from fare box revenues.

As much as $1.6 billion could be needed to finance Bay Area transit in the next four years, the Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC) has estimated.

The gap between the region's existing projected transit needs and all anticipated financial resources could jeopardize existing transit operation, along with possibilities for transit improvements in the future, according to the BAC report.

The BAC is a private non-profit organization made up of some top businessmen in the Bay Area and has been in existence since 1945.

A morning-long session to discuss the report was held at the Bank of America's world headquarters building in San Francisco Wednesday.

Good morning, good cooks.

California's rich Spanish heritage shows itself splendidly in hundreds of delicious recipes for spicy, pungent main dishes. Whether dining al fresco or formally, it's particularly appropriate to draw on this supply of zesty treats for inspiration — and for cook-without-care casseroles, such as Brandied Chicken Casserole.

The happy marriage of seasoned tomato sauce with light, fragrant California brandy is a flavor secret dating back to the early Spanish settlements of the West. The scent alone will have the guest scurrying to the table.

When you spoon out generous portions of the steaming, pungent casserole, pass a basket of chunky-cut, crackly-crusted bread, so that the guests may sop up every delicious drop of the sauce from their platters after eating the tender chicken.

BRANDIED CHICKEN CASSEROLE

2½ to 3 pounds frying chicken pieces
¼ cup flour
1½ teaspoons seasoned salt
1 egg
2 Tablespoons water
1 cup finely crushed corn chips
¼ cup shortening (half butter)
1 teaspoon onion powder
½ teaspoon chili powder
¼ teaspoon oregano
2 teaspoons corn starch
one-third cup California brandy
1 chicken bouillon cube, crumbled
1 (16-oz.) can tomato wedges
½ cup Jack or Muenster cheese, pieces or grated

Dip the three pounds chicken pieces in the one-fourth cup flour mixed with the one and one-half teaspoons seasoned salt, then in the egg beaten with the two tablespoons water, and finally in the one cup finely crushed corn chips to coat evenly. (Let stand while measuring remaining ingredients.)

Brown the coated chicken in the fourth cup melted shortening over moderate heat until golden brown. Turn only once; use broad spatula to turn gently to keep coating in place. Carefully arrange in shallow casserole, 10-inches in diameter. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) one-half hour.

In a saucepan combine the one teaspoon onion powder, one-half teaspoon chili powder, one-fourth teaspoon oregano and two teaspoons cornstarch. Stir in the one-third cup brandy. Ad the crumbled bouillon cube and sixteen ounces tomato wedges. Bring to boil and spoon over chicken.

Continue baking chicken until it's tender, 15 to 20 minutes longer. Dot with cheese and heat until melted or place under broiler a minute (keep your eye on it).

Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Bicentennial Course Set For Classroom Aides

A Bicentennial Focus Classroom Aide Mini Course starts Sept. 15 from 7-9 p.m. in Skyline School Library, Warwick and Christen off King Drive in Daly City.

The eight-week course is offered by South San Francisco Adult School.

Christiana Graham, instructor, is a teacher at Skyline where teachers and aides plan to initiate a Thursday or Friday afternoon activity program with a Bicentennial theme.

Heads go up and eyes are lifted above the stresses of today, suggests Mrs. Graham, when we steep ourselves even a bit in our America's beginnings.

"We can feel the Spirit of '76. We realize we have come from great people with great ideas. Adults may be part of passing on this tradition to our children by enrolling in the mini course for classroom aides," she said.

Skyline area aides who take the course will hopefully be able to commit themselves to spend a block of six Thursday or Friday afternoon one-hour periods assisting the teacher in an upper elementary classroom during the year with an activity of his or her choice developed as part of the aide class.

Some activities suggested are models, stitchery, shop and garden, cooking, graphics, drama, chorus, newspapers of Tory and Patriot points of view.

Parents of Skyline School area are especially invited, but any adults may enroll and work as aides in any classroom in South San Francisco District or wherever they live.

Adults who want the history and leadership training and can't presently be aides are welcome.

The course will be repeated through the year.

Pluses for parents are several, Mrs. Graham said.

Parents may be involved with their children in a subject area.

They may become more comfortable as resource people on various other topics where they have background and parents may become better acquainted with each other.

Mrs. Graham studied in New England and the Middle Colonies of Virginia, Maryland and Delaware during the last two summers.

Slides will arouse interest in the Bicentennial theme.

Leadership skills will be taught through role playing, observation and discussion.

Some reading in colonial history, historical fiction or children's literature of the period is encouraged.

Instruction and practice in the use of audio-visual equipment will increase competence and confidence.

To register, plan to arrive at 6:45 o'clock the first night of the class at Skyline School Library Sept. 15.

The fee is $3.

Phone 583-5746 for further information.

Volunteers Will Be Honored

The first volunteer Mental Health Association Award Luncheon will be held on Tuesday at the Villa Chartier in San Mateo.

The event was announced by Chairwoman, Mrs. Stanley Gallagher of Redwood City.

The gathering will be more than just honoring the volunteers from throughout the county at the eight Friendship Centers and mental health services.

The clergy of the eight churches that house the centers will be presented with a special award for their cooperation and fine work assisting the volunteers and providing space for the centers.

Approximately five years ago the Mental Health Association with the cooperation of St. Andrews Lutheran Church developed a Friendship Center and from that time other Friendship Centers have been organized in other churches to be part of the program which provides a social atmosphere for those who have or have had emotional problems.

Nearly 100 volunteers provide care and attention at centers throughout San Mateo County.

A few of the volunteers being honored include Mrs. Dorrie Jakeman and Mrs. Lawrence E. Derrick of Burlingame, and Mrs. George Gallaway of Hillsborough.

The clergy include the Rev. Lewis Whitehead, United Methodist Church, San Bruno; and the Rev. Timmothy S. Rudolph, St. Martin's Church, Daly City.

Hadassah 'Floating' Tourney

Peninsula-Deborah Hadassah is launching a "floating" bridge tournament open to men and women of the entire Bay area, Oct. 21, to be held on the "Bay Winds," formerly the "Show Boat," which is docked on the Bay in Burlingame, at 410 Airport Blvd.

According to Mrs. Joshua (Hansi) Torczyner of Burlingame, who is chairing this project, assisted by Mrs. Fred Pollat of Hillsborough, the bridge tournament will start at 10:30 a.m., will stop at noon for lunch, and then will resume at 1:30 p.m. and end at 3 p.m. Prizes will be awarded.

The $10 contribution, the entrance fee, will include the cost of the lunch. Proceeds of the project will be used for the social welfare work of Hadassah, a non-profit national organization whose funds provide aid on a non-sectarian basis in the fields of medicine, education, rehabilitation, job-training in Israel as well as in the United States through its affiliation with voluntary agencies in this country.

Information and reservations can be obtained through Mrs. Ernest Smetana of San Francisco (586-5222), Mrs. Herman Lewin of San Mateo (349-1331), Mrs. Richard Harte of Redwood City (369-9425), or Mrs. Steven Chandler of Foster City (345-3033).

Bicentennial Fair Held for Children

The "Bicentennial Fun Faire" was held at Westlake Park recently to culminate a fun summer on Daly City playgrounds.

Youngsters chose bicentennial themes to portray in the morning parade.

Marchbanks Park portrayed the "Best Flag" — "The Culpepper Minutemen."

Our Lady of Mercy's Bicentennial Minute of "The Battle of Bunker Hill" won "Best Skit" honors, while the Annual Supervisors Award went to Northridge Park's "Ethan Allen and the Green Mountain Boys."

Recreation commissioners Al Kane, Jane Powell and Tony Aiello served as honored judges for the parade.

When the opening festivities were over, youngsters enjoyed many games including tug 'o war, sack races, inner tube relays, parachute games, stilts, boffing and others.

After a noontime old-fashioned hot dog barbeque, free carnival booth games, the witches dip (dunking tank), face painting, candle making, snail races and watermelon eating rounded out a fun day for all.

SM College District Centralization

The San Mateo Community College District took several more steps down the road to improved coordination among the district's three schools Wednesday night.

This has been a consistent theme of the district throughout much of this year, particularly since a master plan study indicated centralization of a variety of functions was desirable.

During a gathering of the district's board of trustees at College of San Mateo, board members repeatedly stressed that they desire such centralization.

They urged the district's administration to establish one person to be the district's liaison with an area-wide clearinghouse program for job placement of certain students.

It originally had been planned to have representatives from all three campuses work on the project.

James Tormey board president, again criticized the district's three separate and varied community services programs as being "imbalanced." He has lobbied for several years to have a complete analysis of programs and costs of community services activities done for the board.

He said Wednesday he would move this spring to freeze all community services funds — except monies used to maintain things like tennis courts, libraries, gymnasiums and swimming pools — if such a study is not forthcoming soon.

Chancellor Glenn Smith promised that an analysis would be produced in the near future.

Tormey pointed out, "The age of feudalism is over. It's a whole new generation now."

He emphasized that the days of almost complete campus autonomy are gone.

However, at least one member of the audience dissented.

Douglas Crawford, an instructor at CSM, allowed that a measure of autonomy was healthy.

He said, for him, the drift of the district into centralization in most areas was disturbing.

"I'm sad to see it," Crawford said.

He also said a move in that direction will lead to new layers of central administration and will, eventually, save the district nothing.

He cited examples of certain high school districts which grew from single-school districts to multi-school systems and allowed their central administrative staffs to increase accordingly.

The result, Crawford maintained, has been a weakening of education in those districts.

Smith said, "We want to preserve what's best at all three colleges."

A Delightful Problem

It isn't often that the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors is faced with a delightful problem, as Chairman James V. Fitzgerald explained it Friday.

At the close of budget hearings last July, the board agreed to establish a community committee to review county programs in order to make recommendations to the board at next year's budget sessions.

Supervisors agreed that the maximum committee size should be 15.

Fitzgerald said that 75 persons from throughout the county applied, and that supervisors have pared the number down to 32.

"They're all qualified, and the caliber of people is unbelievable," Fitzgerald said.

Square Dance Class Begins

Kalico Kats, a square dancing club sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, will start a beginners class Sept. 17 8-10 p.m. at Franklin D. Roosevelt School, 1200 Skyline Drive, Daly City.

Classes will be taught by the Club Caller, Charlie Brown.

The first two sessions will be free.

For further information, call 755-8267, 756-8585 or 755-0961.

Hearing on Dredging Set

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will hold in San Bruno its only West Coast hearing on revised dredging regulations.

The hearing will be held at 1:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., Sept. 12, at the Capuchino High School Auditorium, 1501 Magnolia Ave.

Le Pacini

We are criticized occasionally for recalling to our readers only those events or circumstances which we predicted or indicated could happen or might be the case, or whatever, while rarely reminding anybody when we have been wrong.

The only way we can answer that charge is to admit it. We'd be pretty stupid to remind people of all the times we are wrong. We have a hard enough time with our credibility as it is.

That established, we'll swing into one more circumstance to remind you all of our infallibility. To do this we have picked out a poll recently conducted by the New York Daily News which seems to credit our constant claim that baseball is still America's favorite sport and that pro football is losing ground to pro basketball.

The poll said that 30 per cent of voters prefer baseball, 18 per cent basketball and 15 per cent football. Hockey came in at 9 per cent, and the rest of the percentage points apparently represented people who don't care about any of the so-called major spectator sports.

Broken down further, basketball was No. 1 among fans under age 35, while baseball was an overwhelming favorite among the 50-and-over group (41 per cent to second place football's 18).

Baseball, however, was still second to basketball by only six percentage points (27-21) among the under-35 crowd. Football garnered only 13 per cent, hockey 12.

Among suburbanites and/or the affluent football rated first, as 18 per cent out-of-towners preferred football to 15 per cent city dwellers, which is ironic, considering that city people are supposed to be the violent breed. Football is also the favorite of college grads and those in the $20,000 salary bracket.

Baseball was 33 per cent in the cities, 27 in the suburbs; basketball 19 in the big towns, 16 away.

See that? If one looks hard enough, one can always find somebody, somewhere, who will agree with him.

MISCELLANY: Reggie Jackson, Oakland's supposed "super star," gets all the publicity, but the Giants' Bobby Murcer and Willie Montanez, neither of them home run hitters, have as many RBIs as Jackson.

We continue to claim, however, that Montanez is a vastly overrated defensive first baseman. That doesn't mean we think he's bad. We in fact think he's pretty good. But not great or even near to it, as some of the local seers have been psyched into believing by Montanez' fancy lacework with his glove.

He's no sure shot on pop flies; he sometimes shows bad judgment in feeding to pitchers on a grounder hit to him; he's average at best on bunt coverage; he sometimes shows poor judgment on cut-offs; and he often opts to take a throw out of the dirt when a good stretch will do the job.

On more than one occasion we've seen him pull the latter trick, fan his glove at the ball, and then watch as the ball pops out of his glove because he also didn't use two hands. In doing so, his left hand would be covering the pocket of the glove, preventing the escape hatch. But if he had used two hands, you see, he wouldn't have been able to fan the ball. And yes, we realize that a first baseman can't always use two hands.

The only first baseman we've ever seen who could consistently get away with "fanning" the ball was Reggie Otero, who played 14 games for the Cubs in 1945 and then spent time in the PCL with, we believe, Los Angeles.

We'LL PROBABLY get some hate mail, now, from Montanez fans who will claim that we've degraded his abilities as a ball player. On the contrary, as noted, Montanez is a pretty good first baseman who needs polish.

Don't forget, he broke in with the Phillies as an outfielder, played mostly that position for his first three years in the majors, and played some outfield even the past two years. In fact, this is his first full year in professional baseball as strictly a first sacker. He is developing into a good hitter, and is fast enough to be a good base runner if he'd play a little more heads up. He is an asset to the Giants, for sure.

But come on, fellas, don't try to tell us he is a great fielding first baseman. It just isn't so.

If you haven't seen one of the recent Giants' scorecards, you might be interested to know that under a feature titled "Baseball's Magic Moments" (in this case, "Giants' Magic Moments"), there are 20 suggested outstanding days in Giants' (San Francisco Giants) history from which fans are being urged to choose a moment to submit as part of baseball's bicentennial salute next year.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and, presumably, some sort of a committee, will choose a memorable moment from among those submitted by all clubs in similar balloting, and that will then become the magic moment in baseball history to be saluted during the bicentennial.

Willie Mays appears in five of the memorable or magic moments: his four homers against Milwaukee on April 30, 1961; his home run against Houston on the last day of the season in 1962, which brought the Giants a 2-1 win and a pennant tie with the Dodgers, who they then went on to beat in a playoff; his 512th homer, breaking Mel Ott's NL record for career homers; his 3000th hit; and for being one of five Giants to hit home runs in one inning against Cincinnati in 1961 (the others were Orlando Cepeda, Felipe Alou, Jimmy Davenport and John Orsino).

Juan Marichal appears four times: his one-hitter against the Phillies in his major league debut in 1960; his no-hitter against Houston in 1963; his 16-inning, 1-0 victory over Warren Spahn in 1963 (Mays hit the home run to beat Spahn); and his 5-1 beating of San Diego on the last day of the season in 1971 to edge the Dodgers by one game for the Western Division title.

Included in the contest is also a selection by fans of the most memorable personality and the above should give you some idea of who might win that one.

What bothers us about the contest is that there's apparently no way to vote for the NEW YORK Giants, which knocks out Bobby Thomson's home run against Ralph Branca in 1951, the year of the Miracle Finish, to steal the pennant from the Dodgers. It would be absurd to eliminate that Memorable Moment, because we have a hunch it would be the overall national winner.

Sporting News editor and publishers, C. C. Johnson Spink, editorializes that the Memorable Moment contest isn't enough of a contribution by baseball to the bicentennial, and has, we fell, four better suggestions for Kuhn:

— A traveling exhibition of mementos from the Hall of Fame; publication of several pamphlets on the game's history to be distributed to school kids; the scheduling of a second All-Star Game to be played at the height of the bicentennial program in Washington, D.C. with the players dressed in the uniforms of the 1880s through early 1900s (well, we can scratch that one); a television spectacular.

SUDDEN THOUGHT: We hope that John Montefusco doesn't throw his arm out trying to match strikeouts with roommate Ed Halicki.

And speaking of Halicki, we don't know how significant this is, but he has exactly the same physical dimensions as Oakland's new all-pro linebacker Ted Hendricks. Which may mean that Halicki should have been a linebacker or Hendricks should have been a pitcher.

Prep Grid Preview

South City Lopsided NPL Choice

By JERRY LITTRELL
Times Correspondent

There's not one girl in a football uniform in the North Peninsula League. So far.

The picking order seems to have stabilized. For a while.

Everyone is picking the South San Francisco High Warriors to repeat as conference champions in 1975. Once again.

In other words, things are back to normal in the NPL.

The veteran-studded Warriors seemingly have the inside track, but could face stiff competition from one old and one new nemesis.

Terra Nova and Serramonte, not necessarily in that order, could each threaten the Warriors' title bid. This could be the first serious threat by Serramonte in the grid history of the school.

But in order to gain the crown the Regents will have to contend with what could prove to be the Warriors' best squad in this decade. Two top running backs and a heavy dose of veteran linemen give the South City crew the needed edge in what should be the best NPL race in years.

Heading up the SSF attack will be senior fullback Bob Luster and senior halfback Tali Ena, both fulltime starters from last year's title squad. Running back Steve Davidson, who saw some action last year, is out with a knee injury for the next month and will be replaced by last year's top sophomore back, Asa Hilliard.

Replacing quarterback Frank Cesarz will be a big chore. Coach Ray DeJong is counting on senior Mark Nuti, who split quarterbacking chores with Cesarz last year until the record-setting passer took over the Warrior reins for good.

Nuti has enough targets if the Warriors decide to throw. All the backs are capable receivers, as is tight end Jimmy Selvitella, another veteran starter. Rich Keras, Hal Bennett, Vic Arias, Rich Zem, Rod DeVos and Larry Cerini compose the big South City line. Arias also doubles as one of the area's most reliable placekickers.

SERRAMONTE

The Regents' seniors battled the South City seniors two years ago as sophomores for the junior-loop title and lost. Since then, however, Serramonte has developed possibly the area's best college prospect in fullback Skip Campbell, a 6-2, 220-pound bruiser who can pound opposing linemen into submission.

Depth may be the Regents' biggest hurdle. A solid line, led by Rick Pagan, Phil Granger, Brian Cuslidge and Jerry Hughes, fronts the Regent backfield but any injuries along the way could mean serious trouble.

Quarterback Keith Pult, a part-timer last year, returns, but should get ample competition from junior Dan Lara. Skip's younger brother, Ken, joins the elder Campbell in the backfield along with Bob Manbert. Actually, the eldest Campbell is Al Campbell, assistant coach to Regent head man Jack Thur, so the Regent attack is really a family affair.

TERRA NOVA

Terra Nova looks back on last year as a "might-have-been' time. They came within inches of beating South City on a controversial official's call which went against the Tigers — and almost since then coach Bob Lotti has been waiting for another shot at the the powerful Warriors.

If he's to do it this year it will have to be with a plethora of juniors. Fullback Jeff Bartizal, a strong runner for the sophs last year, and QB Tim Gartner must work with veteran runner Dave Matas and transfer Jim Eckstein in front of a predominantly junior line anchored by center Jim Forbes. Clyde Curry, tight end and defensive tackle, joins Dave Waterman, whom Lotti considers the "best kicker around," to form the Tiger veteran nucleus.

Lotti has promised to "open up his attack this year." This doesn't necessarily mean the Tigers will throw the ball, something akin to a mortal sin to Lotti, but probably means they'll run outside at least one tackle once a half.

WESTMOOR

Graduation played its usual tricks, this time with Westmoor the victim. Three-year starting quarterback Harold Day has departed, and to fill the gap coach Pete Matisi has switched last year's top receiver, Ken DeAlba, to the signal-calling spot.

The backfield, smaller than usual, is led by veteran halfback-flanker Terry Hartsfield and two-year veteran Jim Wyatt. Linemen are possibly better than last year with veterans Jim Hyde, John DeBenedetto at tackle and Joe Crocenzi at guard. But the whole year relies on how well the position switch will work at quarterback.

Ray DeJong

EL CAMINO

The Colts possess some size and some experience but whether enough of either is present to make them contenders remains to be seen. Senior quarterback Matt Hill and junior thrower Al Kern will vie for a starting role, while senior runners Tony Macawile and Rick Gazzano give the Colts enough experience in the backfield.

The line is not as big nor as talented as the strong Colt fronters of the past few years, but it does have a good tackle in George Piscatello. Linebacker Glen Matteucci should be one of the best around.

OCEANA

Oceana's line is bigger and more experienced, at least on paper, and the Sharks have their usual dose of speed in the backfield, so they could become an upset threat before the season is over.

Ken Jones, a guard last year, has been switched to fullback. He joins veteran Dennis Murray in the backfield along with either senior Don Collins or junior Dave Hines at quarterback.

Three veteran linemen, Rick Boardman, Ken Suozil and Gene Peter, give the Sharks needed experience up front.

JEFFERSON

The numbers game could get to be tiresome for the Indians. There seldom has been such a hard-luck season as Jeff had last year, when a strong defense kept them in every game. Only 19 players suited up most of last year — but now the Indians have 23. If the same mental toughness is there this year the Indians could upset someone along the way.

Quarterbacks Mike DeNatali and Ron Sylvia join Jim Tate, Ed Mixco and Mark Cannizzo in the backfield. Last year's top lineman, Butch Oliver, is out now with a leg injury and some slack will have to be taken up by Hugh Lovelles and defensive back Barry Franklin if the Indians want to present the tough-tackling unit of last year.

HALF MOON BAY

Physical strength on the line and passing ability and experience in the backfield should make Half Moon Bay at the least a strong contender in the NPL this year. The Cougars have the toughest opening slate, going against Terra Nova first and coming back against South City. A split after those two games should make the whole year a success.

The Cougars have a wrestling champion at every line position save one. Wrestling tactics bring on 15-yarders, but at least coach Gerald Murphy knows the brute force is there.

Don Fuller, at 5-4, 163 pounds, is unmovable at the corner and gets backup help from monster Tom Hopkins, possibly the best-ever out of HMB. Kent Schindlebower, Jess Ayer, Mike Berger and Brad Walters are a formidable defensive crew.

COACHES' PREDICTIONS

1. South San Francisco. 2. Terra Nova-Serramonte (tie). 4. Half Moon Bay. 5. Oceana. 6. El Camino-Westmoor (tie). 8. Jefferson.

Pacifica, County Huddle on Parks

The future of the Milagra Ridge Nike site and San Pedro Valley County Park were table topics during an informal luncheon session of City of Pacifica and county officials recently.

Supervisor Jean Fassler, along with County Parks Director Jack Brooke and his assistant, Doc Mattison, met with the Pacifica contingent to try to coordinate county and city planning over lunch at Nick's Restaurant.

Representing the city were Councilwomen Grace McCarthy and Janice Fulford, City Manager Don Weidner, Parks, Beaches and Recreation Director Jinny Jacquith and PBR Commission Chairman Harvey Bartlett. Also attending were County Park and Recreation Commissioners Polly Sandkulla and Ernest Ribera.

The session broke up with no specific plans for the Nike site, other than in Weidner's words, to get it under public ownership and control." The county presently has an application before the federal government to obtain those lands recently declared surplus.

First-stage planned development of San Pedro Valley County Park, on the other hand, was outlined by Brooke.

It was agreed that Brooke would prepare an explanatory document, giving specific intentions as to the proposed phase one development. Once received, the various affected groups will review and, if desiring to do so, suggest changes.

Pending review by all concerned, Brooke said the first phase tentatively would include a partial turf area, an entrance road, a control gate, a major parking area and about half the initially proposed trails, none of which will be paved, and most of which are existing trails.

Mrs. Fassler said the board would prefer a review and evaluation after the completion of phase one on a yearly basis for several years and a more comprehensive review prior to beginning phase two to ensure proper public input.

According to Brooke, the county has $550,000 earmarked for phase one. He said the hope is to be able to dedicate a completed phase one next year as a Bicentennial Park.

The initial proposed park plan recently came under severe attack by Pacifica environmentalists who charged the area would become a bed of concrete and asphalt and the endangered steelhead in San Pedro Creek would be in jeopardy.

Mrs. Fulford, herself an environmentalist, pursued the concern for the fish and the question of whether there ought to be a turfed area.

At one point, she said the first phase should be held up, pending a complete investigation by the State Department of Fish and Game relative to the danger to the steelhead.

The problem, according to Mrs. Fulford and other environmentalists, is that turfing would have to be maintained, most likely with herbicides, pesticides or fertilizers.

Their concern is that these materials could be washed into the stream and result in a hazardous condition for the fish.

Brooke said maintainance could be "managed effectively" at certain times and in certain ways, so that these elements would not get into the stream. He said phase one includes the one turfed area to see whether this, in fact, could be accomplished.

"Nothing irreversible is being proposed," said Brooke. "We're altering the land to the point where it can't be changed back."

Mrs. Sandkulla said it is vital to "place controls" on the park and its use. "People are neat, but they are destructive," said Mrs. Sandkulla. She said visitors would rather "walk in the creek" than on a path inside it and would "pick up fish with their hands" unless controls, such as park rangers, prevented it.

There followed a brief exchange about park philosophy itself; whether this was to be a natural park, an urban park or a park in an urban area.

Of all the undiluted froth to seep through the television screen none is worse than the Cher Show.

Cher, the star, is neither pretty nor funny, nor can she act. While it is true that she has a fair voice, she punishes it with shrieks and grunts that must scar her voice box.

During the last TV season she desecrated Sunday evening by prancing through the tube in dresses that reveal that she has a flat chest and straight hips. Soon, she and her collection of "co-stars" will move to Monday night, which is fortunate because it leaves the Sabbath more pure.

Cher is reported to have shed her husband, Sonny, because he managed her life. I, for one, wish she would take him back. Perhaps, his guidance could make a show out of her turkey.

If she can't get Sonny back, she should find a different director and, certainly, some different writers. Once having engaged them, she should put them to work on a whole new format.

CHER'S HISTORY reveals that she was married to Sonny when she was 17 years old. Prior to her marriage, she had become a high school dropout and a professional baby-sitter. More important than these things, however she was the victim of a homelife that was often disrupted by the departure of the men her mother married and shed with the change of seasons.

After Cher's marriage, Sonny, her husband, taught her to sing and to wiggle. Then, he made her a co-partner in a team, Sonny and Cher, that broke into show business through the nightclub circuit.

As the team passed from one success to another, Cher forever was getting sick and winding up in the hospital. Yet, she continued to work until — in the words of her mother — "she grew up to be somebody."

AT THE VERY moment when success crowned the Sonny and Cher team, the marriage broke apart, leaving Cher with a kind of unhappiness that her Sunday night show has not erased.

According to her mother, there has been a look of enormous sadness in Cher's eyes. It has been there through Cher's marriage and separation to a musician, and it still is there, although her mother writes that recently Cher "seems to be happier than she has been for quite a while."

Of Cher her mother writes, "Cher's still my little girl. I guess she always will be."

Perhaps her little-girl quality is the thing that ruins the Cher show. She doesn't bring to it the maturity necessary to make it anything more than a display of her legs. She needs Carol Burnett's ability to command every situation; she needs Mary Tyler Moore's silent authority. Perhaps, what she needs more than anything else is Sonny's management.

A general meeting will be held 10:30 a.m. Sept. 18 at Breuners.

Recreation Benefit Program Is Planned

"The Cable Car Square Dancers' third benefit dance for the San Francisco Recreation Center for the Handicapped, will be held at the Daly City War Memorial Building Sept. 21, 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Daughters of Charity Join in Commemoration

The Daughters of Charity of Mary's Help Hospital will be among the participants in a mass commemorating the canonization of their foundress, Elizabeth Ann Seton.

The mass will be said at St. Mary's Cathedral Sept. 20, at 2:30 p.m.

The Rev. Joseph T. McGucken, Archbishop of San Francisco will be principal celebrant at the mass along with 22 concelebrants.

The homily will be given by the Rev. Charles E. Miller, C.M., of St. John's Seminary, Camarillo.

Mass will be followed by a reception in the lower cathedral.

The Daughters of Charity ask all to join them at this celebration.

"We would like everybody to share our great joy at this blessed event," said Sister John Joseph, pastoral care coordinator at Mary's Help.

Elizabeth Ann Seton will be canonized Sunday by Pope Paul VI in a special ceremony in Rome.

More than 12,000 pilgrims and a large number of Daughters of Charity from all five provinces in the United States plan to attend the canonization ceremonies.

In 1809 Mother Seton founded the first Daughters of Charity in North America at Emmitsburg, Maryland.

A widow with five children, she faced many hardships after her conversion to Catholicism and while founding her religious community.

At the time of her death there were 50 Daughters of Charity.

Today 7,500 sisters in six independent congregations acknowledge her as their foundress.

According to Sister John Joseph, the Daughters of Charity at Mary's Help Hospital look forward to the event with "great anticipation."

She added: "Since Mother Seton now belongs to all people, not only to the Daughters of Charity, we hope that many people will join us to bless her on this very happy day."

Trespassing Suspect Held

A Daly City man was arrested by Daly City police on charges of trespassing, prowling and being drunk in public early Sunday.

Police said Darrell McCall, 21, 148 Santa Barbara St., was found inside the Crown Colony Apartment guard house, which had been broken into.

GIRL SCOUTING

CONSULTING will meet Thursday, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at Hope Lutheran Church according to Daly City Girl Scout Association Chairwoman Mrs. Margaret Connolly.

Troop leaders, Brownie, Junior and Cadette levels, with special needs and/or problems may contact their unit consultants prior to this date with fall plans.

The first full adult, with Senior Scouts welcome, Daly City Girl Scout Association meeting is scheduled Sept. 18 from 9:30 a.m.-1 p.m. at Hope Lutheran Church and will include a pot luck-type luncheon.

TRAINING schedules for new and experienced leaders consultants and trainers are now available through the Brisbane Girl Scout office, 467-3330.

The schedules include event registration forms.

SCOUTLOOK, the local association newspaper, will be distributed by an East Bay bulk mailing for delivery sometime this week, according to Daly City Association Scoutlook Editor Mrs. Becky Burke.

BROWNIE BEAUTY DAY sign-ups are now being taken by Daly City Special Events Coordinator Caroline Futrell who announces the appointment of Sue Sacaduto as Brownie Beauty Day coordinator.

The event is set for Oct. 18 and is open to all Daly City area Brownie Girl Scout troops.

The day-long affair will include at least one Daly City beautification project, probably the planting of California Poppy seeds.

Miss Scaduto is the leader of Brownie troop 1704 and is a former Daly City Senior Girl Scout.

The 1974 fall Brownie event was the first part of "pick Up — Plant Up," the entry of the Daly City Girl Scout Association in the Keep America Beautiful national campaign.

The Center also has slated a free "Coming Together" poetry sharing session for Thursday from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Participants are requested to bring their own poetry works or the works of other women.

In order to continue offering programs, the center needs to find volunteers willing to staff the office four hours a day and on Monday night when a "Drop-In" session is conducted. Persons interested may contact the center which is located at 300 East Santa Inez Ave., San Mateo.

IT'S YOUR MONEY

Q. I belong to a travel club, and quite a few of our trips are abroad. I've often wondered what would happen if I got sick on one of these trips. Does my Medicare cover care in foreign hospitals?

A. If you are traveling through Canada between Alaska and another State and an emergency puts you in a Canadian hospital, Medicare can help pay for the covered services you receive. Otherwise, Medicare generally does not cover hospital care you receive while traveling outside the United States.

Planners Mull Rezoning

A new zone might be created in San Bruno to accommodate a request by owners of the city's largest medical facility.

Dr. William Weiss of San Bruno had sought rezoning of the three blocks of medical buildings on San Bruno Avenue (administrative and research) to C-N (neighborhood commercial), so the owners may add 600 square feet to make room for a new physician.

Planning commissioners, however, and some community members, feared commercial infiltration in the Mills Park residential area if such a rezoning were granted.

The commission accepted a staff suggestion that a P-A (professional and administrative) zone be administrative) zone be created to allow the medical facilities to expand and prevent commercial uses inthe area.

Dr. Stanley Nudelman, a physician in the facility, told the Planning Commission that the center must have some minimal ability to expand.

"If we can not expand, we must move; we don't want to move," Nudelman told the commission.

He said all but two of the city's practicing physicians are located in the San Bruno Avenue buildings and that it is one of the largest medical facilities in the area.

Many patients, he said, walk to the building or take a taxi and could not afford to use other means of transportation.

Dr. Weiss said the doctors intend to enlarge one building and nothing else.

"If we don't, we are going to have problems. We don't care what zoning you give us. Just give us the opportunity to increase the size of the building," Weiss said.

There were opponents to the proposal.

Rudolph deFries of the Mills Park area submitted petitions signed by more than 400 of the area's residents opposing C-N zoning of the strip adjacent to residential area.

They feared traffic problems, added noise and disturbance if the rezoning were permitted, deFries said.

The P-A zone, he said, was a reasonable compromise.

Planning Director Paul Moeller said the staff can prepare a P-A zone by the Oct. 6 meeting.

He said the zone will not allow for retail use. It will accommodate professional offices including such uses as insurance agencies and brokers, notaries, landscape architects and credit reporting agencies.

Also, it will be suitable for administrative offices, accessory structures and conditional uses.

Nudelman said the delay caused by creating the zone will be a problem for the doctors, but they said they will attempt to manage until the new zone is created.

Filling Station Loses DC Bid

The Daly City Redevelopment Agency Tuesday rejected the recommendation of its Project Area Committee to grant approval to a Mission Street gasoline station to rebuild and expand its facility.

Last month, the Project Area Committee ignored Redevelopment Area staff planner Don Ciucci's recommendation that the application be shelved pending completion of a consultant's report on the entire target area.

Station operator W. Willis proposed to install more gasoline pumps and larger underground storage tanks.

The council agreed the larger station would create monumental traffic hazards in the business area.

Chairman Victor Kyriakis said he had "serious reservations" about upgrading the area as a gasoline station. He said, he wanted to maintain a "wait and see" stand until the consultant's report was in.

"(The station area) might even be a mini-park," Kyriakis said.

Directors William Schumacher and Anthony Giammona agreed.

The City Council acts as the Redevelopment Agency.

Phil and Murray Lehr Discuss Their Hobbies

You could say this comes under the heading of "brotherly love": This scribe has enjoyed many dinners at Phil Lehr's Steakery and at his brother's restaurant, Murray Lehr's Greenhouse — both in San Francisco. Time and time again, you'll find the brothers dining together at their restaurants. If they're not making plans to purchase a boat (this is Murray's hobby), then Phil is going over blueprints for another dining site (this is Phil's hobby). As for Yours Truly, their food, company and conversation is "Bright Lights" hobby . . . Vince Licata has to be the "family man of the year." When a holiday falls on Monday, you'll usually find him closing his Vince's Seafood and Italian restaurant on Sunday and Monday and enjoying the holiday with his family. This family-operated restaurant has a constantly-growing legion of thoroughly satisfied boosters . . . Don't overlook the Businessman's Luncheon at Shipwreck Kelly's. Also the Outrigger "build your own salad" bar. Airport Marina Hotel in Burlingame is Shipwreck Kelly's home port. . . . Tanforan Park's Garden Restaurants has returned to the 50 cent coupon promotion. Beginning Monday (Sept. 15), these 50 cent coupons (found in "Bright Lights") can be redeemed toward any purchase over one dollar at any one of the Nine Garden Restaurants. However, the coupons must be used after 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. Any way you look at it, it's a family bargain.

Headliners Enjoy Scotty Campbell's

Scotty Campbell's continues to be one of the favorite dining stops for show people. Helen Trainor, mother of Scotty's owners, Mary Lou and Theresa, was a recent Circle Star Theater-goer to see the Andy Williams Show, after which she went backstage to say hello to Andy and to invite him to a Scotty Campbell's dinner. As you well know, Andy later commented that his prime ribs of beef dinner was absolutely fantastic! This award-winning restaurant well rates the raves of its many diners. Dinner service seven days a week. Ample parking space . . . For an out-and-out Italian food spread, head your auto for Romano's in Rockaway Beach, Pacifica. Here, Enrico Romano is a past master at pleasing his customers with pizza variety (to go or eat in) and Italian dinners (full course or a la carte). And don't overlook his daily specials .

Council Hears Pigeon Problem

San Bruno's city manager, Gerald Minford, will attempt to help a local youth, Mark Odell, resolve a pigeon problem with the Peninsula Humane Society.

Young Odell told the City Council Monday that the Humane Society has given him 10 days in which to reduce the number of homing pigeons he possesses.

He appears in violations of the four-pet limitation in San Bruno, Mark told the council, hoping for some type of relief he understood might be available under an "exceptions" clause in the municipal ordinance.

Minford said he happens to have just completed a draft of racing pigeon ordinance, which might help out young Odell if he were raising racing pigeons.

He said he wasn't; he just had homing pigeons. But a man from the audience interrupted to say that if the lad, indeed, had homers, he had racers, and proceeded to give a quick run-down on racing pigeons.

Minford said he would attempt to have the issue held in abeyance until the city dealt with the racing pigeon proposal.

Other actions included:

• The appointment of Mrs. Jim Curry to succeed Tanforan's Don Frate as chairman of the San Bruno Bicentennial Committee. Frate resigned several weeks ago, but the intent to appoint Mrs. Curry two weeks ago was delayed until Mayor John Barnard could learn if she really wanted the job.

• The proclamation of Sept. 17-23 as Constitution Week and Sept. 14-20 as Latin American Heritage Week.

• Referral to City Atty. Joe Galligan of a claim for damages from Phil Obershaw of 3951 Coronado Way. Obershaw claims damages to his property calling it "outrageous" while cable television was being connected.

• Postponed action on abatement of a structure at 1172 Montgomery St., pending availability of the building inspector to appear before the council. The notice was issued Aug. 8, by Building Inspector Ralph Carrillo, who is ill. The building and structure "have become so dilapidated through old age, neglect, misuse and decay as to be dangerous, untenantable, a fire menance, a breeding place for rodents and menance to the health, safety and welfare of the in the area," Carrillo stated. occupant and the neighbors

Pacifica Rejects Spending Limit

Pacifica's proposed campaign spending ordinance was defeated 3-2 Monday night.

The proposal by Councilwoman Janice Fulford spelled out maximum amounts candidates for office could spend, both in money and in "in kind" services, and also set a limit on expenditures for ballot measures.

Mrs. Fulford and Councilman Sid Lorvan voted to adopt the ordinance. The other members of the council, while calling the intent admirable, contended the proposal was too full of holes and really unnecessary.

Enid Brand of the North County League of Women Voters read a statement in support of the proposed-ordinance.

"The intent is to put a limit on the amounts spent," Mrs. Fulford said in defense of her proposal. "I look at it as having a moral effect and one of persuasion."

Councilwoman Grace McCarthy said the council has sufficient controls over expenditures with the recent disclosure law. Mayor Stan Farber and Councilman Aubrey Lumley agreed.

Among other things, the proposal would limit non-incumbents to $2,000, while allowing incumbents to spend only $1,500. A limit per person, group or committee on any ballot measure was set at $2,000.

In other business, the council:

• Tabled West Sharp Park off-street parking plans until such time as the city has adequate funding to proceed with such a project. Councilman Sid Lorvan voted against the motion.

• Approved the expenditure of $25,000 to buy five vacant lots on the southwest corner of Francisco Boulevard and Salada Avenue. The property is leased by the city for employe parking at an annual cost of $180. The sale is subject to approval of Probate Court.

• Instructed the staff to contact the city's cable television franchise holder asking it to underwrite an estimated $5,500 so the city may retain the consulting services of Cable Dynamics, Inc., to assist in preparing a new cable franchise, monitoring progress of new construction begun by Telecommunications, Inc., and insuring proof of performance of the new system upon its completion.

• Agreed to a six-month extension for Pillar of Fire Church to complete landscaping required as part of a use permit granted four years ago. Church officials had sought a year's extension and indicated they would participate with the city in an assessment district to improve Linda Mar Boulevard. Mayor Stan Farber voted against the extension.

• Authorized the sale of alcoholic beverages at city recreation centers during specified hours and at specified events, with details to be worked out by the Parks, Beaches and Recreation Commission.

• Dissected the proposed County Solid Waste Management Plan, approving its objectives but calling for more centrally located transfer stations and local control in collection for transfer. The council asked that costs of transportation be borne on a county-wide basis and left open the option of the possibility that a solid waste disposal site might be located in Pacifica.

• Voted 3-2, with Mayor Farber and Councilwoman McCarthy dissenting, to remove railing which separates the public from the staff and council members. Councilman Lorvan, who suggested it be taken down and replaced with a taped, line (over which no unauthorized person is to cross), said he didn't believe in "a wall between people." Mrs. McCarthy said the rail was a necessary design feature and without it the council chambers would "look like a barn."

Be Careful, It's Catching

By MICHELLE CARTER
Staff Writer

A flyer is circulating among the housewife underground in Millbrae these days warning about a very serious but non-fatal disease for which there is no known cure.

It's called ceramic fever.

The symptoms include continual complaints about household chores, uninterested compulsion to paint day and night, anxiety waiting for the final firing and a swollen head upon receiving a blue ribbon. Medication is useless, the flyer advises, but the best course of treatment requires attending as many ceramics classes as possible.

The flyer suggests making an appointment at Firehouse Ceramics with Judy or John Freire for help.

A recent visit to Firehouse Ceramics indicated that ceramic fever is no fad ailment soon to sweep across the country and depart. It appears it's here to stay, and husbands might as well take up greenware and glaze and succumb instead of fighting it.

The ceramics craze that Judy Freire fuels at her Millbrae shop is not to be confused with the artisans who "throw" their own clay pieces on potters wheels. These hobbyists begin with pre-molded clay pieces called greenware that are manufactured by the Freires and others throughout the country.

The budding ceramicists buy the greenware and then use the Firehouse workshop to paint and fire their pieces. Judy Freire provides the instruction which includes explaining the vagaries of paint that changes color (sometimes radically) after firing.

"It's funny to see these beautiful Christmas trees that are red going into the kiln and green coming out," Judy said.

Projects underway by Judy's current students range in complexity from glazed pots to a complete ceramic cannister set in a mushroom pattern to lamps and clocks and gold leaf figurines.

"Ceramics has really boomed as a hobby within the last 10 years. Colors used to be hoarded by chemists, but now the secrets are out.

"There are studios in garages throughout the Peninsula. I started in my house with my first kiln and then I started giving classes. I'd fire my students' pieces at my house, and that's where I got the name for the shop—Firehouse Ceramics.

"Every so often one of my students will buy a kiln (starting at about $300) and go off on her own."

But before they do, spare rooms (and not so spare ones) throughout the Peninsula are being converted into studios where entire families are painting the tips of the tails of wily Siamese cats and gold-leafing the gowns of Oriental figurines.

If everybody's into ceramics, nobody notices a few missed meals.

Council Defers North Brae Site

The San Bruno City Council Monday night deferred action on proposed acquisition of the North Brae School for a community Service and Recreation Center pending a review by its blue-ribbon citizens committee of a recent survey's results.

The city's staff had recommended City Manager Gerald Minford be authorized to proceed with the acquisition of the former school facility and that Parks and Recreation be asked to develop the programs and scheduling.

In a summary accompanying the recommendation, Asst. City Manager John Mulqueeney stated that the community center survey east of El Camino Real indicated that 81 per cent of the respondents agreed San Bruno needs a community center and that 68 per cent believe the North Brae School is a good location.

—The city contacted one out of every 13 households, receiving 212 responses for the "need community center?" question. The response: 173, yes; 16, no; 23, don't know.

Is North Brae School a good location? 126, yes; 17, no; 41, don't know.

"Similarly, there was good support for a child care center in San Bruno," the report stated.

Information and referral services were considered by those responding to be the top priority of possible social services the city could make available. Others, in order of their ranking in the survey: Social Security, legal aid, unemployment office.

Top services that respondents believed should be made available for senior citizens included rides to medical appointments, 74; drop-in center, 67; shopping trips, 64; Medi-Cal information, 61; Social Security information, 53, nutritional program, 44.

The survey also indicated that an arts and crafts room would receive the greatest use, 112 respondents; hobby room, 74; music room/reading room, 55; multipurpose auditorium, 50.

But at least two persons in the audience told the council Monday in no uncertain terms they opposed the acquisition.

Mildred Ead said the city "couldn't have found a worse site," citing traffic congestion and noise, aircraft noise, railroad noise and industry.

She said she wondered if the building was considered by the state to be unfit for occupancy by small children if, then, senior citizens were "expendable?"

She called the proposed use of federal funds to purchase the "white elephant" — her words — an "insult" to the senior citizens.

Walter Ross was just as vehement in his opposition. He called the school a "dump."

"They're going to unload a dump on us," the senior citizen said, adding, "We want something nice," with room for more than the 250 senior citizen club's present members.

Councilman Anthony Governale said it was "important for the public to know" that the U.S. Government's criteria for funding in such cases includes finding an area of the city which is "deprived."

Governale said only two census tracts in San Bruno meet the criteria — those east of El Camino Real, where the generally abandoned school plant is located.

The money, he said, is granted to "enhance and improve the lifestyles" of the residents of those tracts.

The facilities should benefit those of the immediate "deprived" area, Governale said, although citizens from throughout the city could use them.

He said he thought the decision should be made by the residents of the affected areas — not by, for instance, by those who live in Crestmoor to the west.

Mayor John Barnard pointed out, however, that, ultimately, all the city's citizens would finance the operation and maintenance of such a municipal center.

SSF to Barricade Vandalized Court

An account of youthful vandalism and harassment of persons last week prompted South San Francisco city councilmen to authorize immediate fencing of the entire length of Westborough Junior High School's northern boundary.

According to the testimony of residents living in the adjacent Baldwin Court cul-de-sac, Westborough students habitually use the residential area above the school as a gathering place for smoking, talking and generally raising a ruckus.

Some of the acts allegedly perpetrated by the youth have included urinating on doorsteps, setting fire to cardboard boxes in the cul-de-sac, drag racing automobiles, during which small children are chased onto the sidewalks, noise in general and destruction of private property, littering the area with lunch bags and their contents, and shouting obscenities at residents.

The problem apparently has existed for some time, and reportedly has been getting worse.

Some residents complained one cause of the problem is that some parents of youth who attend the school drop their children off at the cul-de-sac, rather than taking a longer, more difficult trip, via Westborough Boulevard, to the school's front door.

Another problem, residents contended, is that the school district, for apparently desired access, built concrete steps from the school grounds up to the cul-de-sac. Residents said they have been plagued ever since.

It was pointed out that residents took their woes to the South San Francisco Unified School District Board of Trustees to no avail. The city also apparently has had little success in getting the school district to resolve the problem by installing the fence, according to a written report to the council.

Councilman Frank Mammini said, "The audacity of the school district to say they have no responsibility is an irresponsibility in itself."

Part of the unanimous motion to begin fence construction was to instruct the city staff to check with the school district about sharing the costs. Mammini asked City Atty. John Noonan to investigate if the city has legal means to force the district to participate, if necessary.

According to City Manager Ed Alario, the city already has received bids, which he said were above estimates, and was waiting on a response from the school district before proceeding. Construction costs were estimated by Alario at from $18,000 to $20,000.

After hearing the stories from residents, the councilmen voted to reject all bids and begin construction on a time and materials basis, with whichever fencing firm the city might negotiate the best deal. Mayor Richard Battaglia said it was up to the school district to remove the stairs.

Richardine and Charlene Horstman, sisters who reside on Baldwin Court, were the most vocal about the incidents.

Richardine Horstman said she had 13 typewritten pages of complaints. Five of those pages, she said, contained a petition presented to the school board last year. "No fence was built," she said.

She told of various incidents, and documented each with a time and date, which included a young man allegedly slashing his wrists in the school yard, an iron bar being thrown at police officers, youth started fires both in the cul-de-sac and on the embankment leading to it, a "staggering girl" she said was "either drunk or on dope," and unwanted teacher pickets on the cul-de-sac during the teacher strike at the end of the last school year.

"When we bought (our home) five years ago, it was a nice residential cul-de-sac," she said. "Now students cut classes and spend their time on Baldwin Court. There's an unwritten law that says residents of Baldwin Court can't sleep (because of the youthful activities and noise) after 7 a.m.," she said.

Her sister came down hard on what she considered the inadequacies of the police department to curtail the problem.

"You can't go outside without having obscenities hurled at you," she said. "We are not living any longer. We're existing. Can any of you (on the council) understand this? Is anything going to be done?"

One after another the residents went to the lecturn and told of individual problems and incidents, while substantiating their neighbors' stories.

"We bought to retire," said Mary Sotherden. "We have grandchildren who can't play on the sidewalk because of the speedsters. I have seen cars chase the children upon the sidewalk," she said. "The filth and foul language is just too much."

Police Chief Jim Datzman, who came late to the meeting because he was attending a Rosary, later said, "The people are going out of their gourd and I don't blame them."

"It's a matter of game-playing," said Chief Datzman, who agreed the only solution was to build a fence.

Brunan Claims Bias By Apartment Company

By JANET PARKER

A San Bruno woman claims she has been evicted improperly from her apartment at The Place in what she calls a discriminatory action by the management.

The woman, Mrs. Cheryl Chernoff, has charged that the management of the 900 unit complex is discriminating against families with children.

"They shouldn't be allowed to get away with this," the woman said this week. "I love my apartment and I refuse to move," she said.

"I feel like I'm in the right. They have been unfair to me," she said.

The management of The Place, however, contends that Mrs. Chernoff is in the wrong. They say she has been a poor tenant, has missed payments and is residing illegally in the apartment after kicking down the door.

"We realize the renter should get a break," said Frank Douse, manager of special projects.

"But we do have our habitual people," he said.

In fact, he said, The Place has every right to lock her out, seize her furniture and store it.

They presently are reintroducing court proceedings to force her out of the dwelling.

The problem started back in March, Mrs. Chernoff said.

A death in the family caused her March payment to be late and she said she made an agreement to make the $278 monthly payment in installments.

The Place management said she was served by a county sheriff's deputy July 9 with unlawful detainer papers which serve as a notice of court proceedings against her to obtain the rent money. Mrs. Chernoff, however, said no one ever served her with those papers.

At the end of July, the management posted a rent-due notice and she said she told them she would complete payments by Aug. 20.

On Aug. 20, while Cheryl was at work, a sheriff's deputy went to her apartment, posted an eviction notice and locked the apartment, leaving her two children on the street, she said.

By then, she had paid all but $100 of the back rent, she claims.

"My children suffered the most," she said. Her daughter, 5, was lost for three hours until she turned up at a friends house. Mrs. Chernoff said she was in a wet swimsuit with no change of clothes. She and her brother, 13, rode their bikes to their grandmothers house in lower San Bruno and called their mother.

After a discussion with management, Mrs. Chernoff was allowed back in the apartment by the management.

Douse said she called the manager at that time with "a sob story" and he let her back in to feed her children and prepare to move out. He told her she would have to leave in four days.

"Within minutes of letting her in, we got a call from her and she said she was back in and it would take us months to get her out," he said. By then, she had called an attorney.

Mrs. Chernoff said she was evicted a second time, Aug. 22, by the management. Again, she asserted her children were home alone, they called her.

"No one ever called me and told me," Mrs. Chernoff said. "The children had nowhere to go."

On the advice of her attorney, Stephen Chase, Mrs. Chernoff broke down the apartment door the next day and she still is in that apartment today, but without her children.

She said she has continually offered the management the back money and the current rent, but they have refused it.

A $100 money order for the back rent was returned, she said.

Douse said she no longer is considered a tenant and therefore they can't accept her money.

Chase claimed that Mrs. Chernoff began a new tenancy when she was let in by the management after the first eviction. Thus, new court proceedings against her were necessary to evict her a second time.

"They had no right to kick her out without new legal proceedings," Chase said.

The Place management, however, contends, she did not sign new rental agreement papers and therefore new tenancy did not begin.

Mrs. Chernoff now owes The Place says, $430.60 to pay for her March rent and legal fees resulting from the eviction and court proceedings.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Chernoff is keeping all rent money she offers to management in a separate account. She said she intends to stay in the apartment indefinitely.

She insisted that no one ever served her with eviction papers and her attorney is investigating the claim by the county sheriff's office that the papers were served.

Mrs. Chernoff also charged that The Place has taken steps to discourage families from living there.

She cited a recent revision in apartment rules, in which children under 18 must be accompanied by an adult at the swimming pool.

Douse denied discrimination is occurring. He said the complex has a separate section for families with children. Mrs. Chernoff resides there.

But Mrs. Chernoff is determined she will win this round.

"I may be a little person, but I'm not going to let them get away with this," she said.
